

Reuters re State OIG to review aid projects, 11 Sep 2025

- State OIG says scaling up oversight projects
- New oversight will include programs on Ukraine, Gaza food aid, global health

WASHINGTON, Sept 11 (Reuters) - The U.S. State Department's independent watchdog said on Thursday it was expanding its oversight to include new foreign assistance programs the agency has taken over from the U.S. Agency for International Development after it was dismantled by the Trump administration.

The Office of Inspector General for the State Department will now conduct audits into how the agency is managing the many global health-related programs it has taken over from USAID, as well as look into the department's efforts to provide food aid in Gaza and how the military funding for Ukraine is managed.